After remaining stretched upon the ground for three or four minutes, he got up and perched himself on the court house steps as smilingly and contentedly as if nothing had happened.

The Churches Sunday.

The weather being pleasant, all the churches were well attended Sunday. The only changes in the morning services were at the Swain Street Baptist and Person Street Methodist. In the former Rev. W. M. Wingate, D. D., preached, and in the latter Rev.J.L. Holden, officia ted. At night Rev. C. H. Wiley, agent for North and South Carolina of the American Bible Society, preached in the interest of that work at the Salis bury Street Baptist Church. In the other Churches the pulpits were occupied by their respective ministers.

The most marked feature of all the services was at the PersonStreet Methodist Church, where a new impetus was given to the highly interesting revival of religion which has been in progress there for two weeks past. Last Sunday twenty-two persons joined the church. The revival is still in progress and the church is crowded nightly. The meetings will be protracted through this week and as long as the interest may justify. Rev. W. C. Norman, the pastor in charge, is a good preacher and is very popular with his congregation.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF NORTH CAROLINA.

SESSION OF 1876-'77.

SENATE.

MONDAY, March 12. The Senate was called to order at 10 A. M., Lieutenant-Governor Jarvis in Prayer by Rev. Dr. Marshall, of the city.

The reading of Saturday's journal was dispensed with. A message was received from the House, transmitting engrossed House amendments to the Senate bill offering a reward for the arrest of Tilman Cranford, a fugitive from justice in Randolph

On motion the Senate concurred in the amendments. The Lieutenant-Governor then proceeded to sign, in the presence of the Senate, the remaining bills and resolu-tions which had been enrolled. Mr. Thorne then, Mr. Wilson in the chair, offered the following resolutions: Resolved, That we tender our sincere and heartfelt thanks to Lieutenant-Gov ernor Jarvis, for the able, dignified and entirely impartial manner in which he has presided over the deliberations of this Senate Resolved, That we tender the same sincere and heartfelt thanks to Senator J. L. Robinson, of Macon, for the courteous, able and impartial manner in which he presided during his temporary occupancy of the chair. Mr. Thorne, in support of the resolu-I have the high honor and the great pleasure of presenting, in behalf of the whole Senate, without distinction of party, the resolutions you have just heard read. They are, indeed, a very imperfect and faint expression of our appreciation of the rare ability and absolute impartiality of the distinguished presiding officers named in the resolutions. In all ages of the world, those who have distinguished themselves in the important departments of life, have been the recipients of civic honors and rewards; whether justly or unjustly, whether willingly or unwillingly bestowed. It is the peculiar boast of our republic, that however slight or however great the offering, whether in word or in deed, to those who have served the nation well, it ever comes as a spontaneous and irrepressible out-pouring of the grateful remembrance of a free

The power of words lies in their deep and heart-felt sincerity. It is not the intrinsic value of the gift, but the heartwarm enthusiasm of the giver that measures its real worth. It was only on Saturday last, we had the honor and the pleasure of presenting to Lieutenant Governor Jarvis, a gift testimonial of our appreciation of the dignified and impartial manner in which he presided over the dcliberations of the Senate. Its intrinsic value was Senate went with it; and, at once, it became a gem of priceless value, a gem hallowed by the heart's purest and tenderest emotions, and worthy of its noble

Two years ago, the distinguished Senator from Macon, then Speaker of the House of Representatines, was the recipient of a valuable gold watch. was a gift-testimonial of the whole House in grateful remembrance of their high oppreciation of his uniforn cour-tesy, ability and unwavering impartialiity in the discharge of the duties of his office. It is not the golden gift, but the warm hearts that prompted it, that must ever make it to him, "a thing o beauty and a joy forever." He wears it proudly now, as an honorable trophy, fairly won by the faithful discharge of cult as well as delicate official cuty.

But there have been, of late, some other presentations, not unworthy of a passing notice. The flowers which Senator Sandifer received, fresh and fragrant from the hands of the fair ladies of Havmount, were, no doabt, fairly won by the faithful discharge of what he concientiously, but very unerringly, believed to be his duty. He will, no doubt, cherish as he should, a pleasant memory of those beautiful flowers and their fair donors, with a still increasing pleas ure, to the latest hour of his life.

But what shall we say of the elegant gold headed cane, presented to Senator Troy, by the people of Fayettville, in honor of his able championship of their ust cause? It is true, he failed; but like all other real heroes, not inglorious ly. "It is only in the Gods, we are told "to grant success," "he did more, he deserved it." As the hero of a great, and not hopelessly "lost cause," his name, encircled with Fame's brightest halo of glory, shall be had in everlasting remembrance by the grateful people of

But I neither will, nor can forget the splendid recognition of my own slight part in the Fayetteville Drama. To be honored as the guardian and protector of the Goddess of Liberty, and, as such, symbolized as seated by her side in the same triumphant car, is surely glory enough for one man, and to me more grateful and more highly appreciated than the costliest gift-testimonial that it is in the power of gold to buy. That it fell to my lot to labor, however slightly and however unsuccessfully, for the just rights of the people of Fayetteville, shall ever be cherished as among the proudest memories of my life. And may it always be my earnest aim so to live and so to labor, that no word or act of mine, shall ever forfeit the glorious title of defender and protector of Liberty, not alone in Fayetteville, but wherever the Goddess may need defense, all the world over.

Mr. Dunn heartily concurred in what Mr. Thorne had said, and upon his motion the resolutions were adopted unanimously by a rising vote.

At 12 o'clock Lieut-Gov. Jarvis arose and in exceedingly pleasant and handsome terms, took his farewell of the Senators. The gavel fell, and at 12.03 the presiding officer declared the Senate adjourned sine die.

THE HOUSE.

At 10 A. M. Mr. Speaker Price called the House to order. Mr. King, from the committee on Enrolled Bills, reported sundry bills and resolutions as correctly enrolled for ratification, and they were signed by the Speaker. The bill to incorporate the Wilmington and New River Canal and Navigation Company, was taken up and passed its several readings.

The Adjournment of the General Assembly. its several readings.

The bill to amend section 10, chapter 182, laws of 1872-'73, incorporating a fire company, was taken up and passed its several readings.

The resolution in favor of Hon. R. H. Cannon, the judge riding the first judicial district, was taken up and adopted. Mr. Shotwell, from the committee on Enrolled Bills, reported a number of bills and resolutions as correctly en-rolled for ratification, all of which were signed by the Speaker.

Messrs. McGehee, Moring and Purnell were announced as the House branch of the committee to examine the Treasurer's accounts

The bill to amend the charter of the own of Scotland Neck, was taken up and laid on the table.

Mr. Cobb, from the committee on Enrolled Bill, reported a number of bills and resolutions as correctly enrolled and they were ratified.

On motion of Mr. Bledsoe, the resolution in favor of Thomas Hampson, was taken up and it failed to pass its second eading.
Mr. Carter, of Buncombe, introduced a resolution allowing the pages and Assistant Doorkeepers, &c., of the House $25 each. The resolution was taken up and failed for the want of a quorum.

At the hour of 12 x., the Speaker's gavel fell upon the desk, and the House of Representatives was declared In anjourning the House, Mr. Speaker Price, in response to a very handsome resolution of thanks for the ability and impartiality with which he had presided, took leave of the House in a very # neat and happily expressed speech.

How Bird Pullen Got Pay for His Cider. Bird Pullen is a character who lives out in the country a piece. He is a little old, dried-up, cadaverous man, who carries a cane, buttons his coat tight around him and looks like he ate dirt. Last Saturday afternoon he tackled Eaton Bledsoe, in front of the Yarbrough House, in the presence of a large crowd, and dunned him for "that quarter." Eaton denied the soft intimation of his obligation to Bird for that amount, whereupon the debtor proceeded to set forth in elaborate and glowing language how, during the campaign, he had on one occasion treated away a quarter's worth of cider for Eaton, upon his promise that he would render a pecuniary remuneration. Bird grew plaintive toward the conclusion of his narrative, as he saw Eaton's countenance harden, and, sympathising with both of them, had punched Bledsoe in the ribs and said, "Oh, you Eaton!" and urged him to stand up to the rack, pulled out a half dollar and gave it to Bird, Dr. Ed. Ransom and Mr. Tom Devereux becoming sureties for the return of the shinplaster. Bird went away smiling and happy, and Eaton was covered with con-

Testimonials for Faithful Services. The scenes which occurred in the legislative halls Friday and Saturday evenings were repeated Sunday at the Yarbrough House. In testimony of his gallant and effective services against the fish bill, a few admiring friends of Capt. Octavius Coke presented him with a couple of very choice and fragrant herrings, and Gen. Roberts, for his equally gallant and no less effective services to secure the passage of the militia bill. was made the recipient of a wooden sword of artistic design. The occasion was entirely impromptu so far as related to the two gentlemen in question. Though presentation speeches were made by a lady appointed for the purpose, neither of the gentlemen had been afforded an opportunity to draw out his manuscript and read his surprise, but both manifested their surprise in the most unmistakable manner, Capt. Coke sat down on a footstool and pressed the fishes to his bosom, while Gen. Roberts walked into a corner of the parlor, turned his face to the wall and wept

'Ye Gentle Legislator." Under this enticipe caption the Wilmington Review thus discourses upon legislators and dime parties: "Dime parties in Raleigh refresh ye weary legislators that is, when they practice at the bar. New motions (little finger and thumb manual) are in order every few minutes, and the call for the previous question is generally sustained. The eyes and nose have a good deal to do with it, and the legislative Bills can't pass any private prohibition laws. They are generally incorporated in an omnibus (all on a big bus') bill. In fact, prohibition, as applied to self-practic with ye modern legislator is not worth -ime party.'

The Oldest Policeman.

Nineteen years ago this month Capt. W. C. Parker, of the police force, entered upon his first police duty in this city, and has exercised the functions of this position from that time until this. barring the time he was in the army and the time during which the Republicans had control of the city govern_ ment. The city has no firmer, more faithful or more capable officer, and never will have. He is the oldest of-ficer in the city's service in point of term of service, but not so in point of age.

Answer to a Question that Everybody Asks.

All the little steer-carts, the mule and horse carts, little wagons and big wagons, and trains carrying eight to ten cars, are loaded with either the "L & R" phosphate or the "National" soluble bone. You had better go quick or you will be too late, as the demand increasing. Don't know nor care who sells them-find out for yourself.

Yesterday, at 12 M., the gavels of the presiding officers of the Senate and House fell upon their respective desks, and the General Assembly stood adjourned sine die. But comparatively few members of either House were in at the death. In the House a few local bills were allowed to pass, but the moment a measure carrying a dime's worth of appropriation with it was proposed, that moment objections were raised and threats of a call of the House made. Though the calendar of the House was by no means depleted, yet no measure of any general importance was left upon it; that is to say none that could have received a sufficient number of votes to have secured its passage. In the Senate almost nothing was done beyond the ratification of bills and resolutions by the presiding officer. A very interesting feature of the proceedings was the offering by Mr. Thorne, a Republican Senator, of resolutions complimentary to Lieut. Gov. Jarvis, and to Mr. Robinson, his immediate predecessor.

Mr. Thorne spoke in support of the resolutions, as will be seen by our regular report, and upon the motion of Mr. Dunn, another Republican Senator, they were unanimously adopted by a rising vote. The hour of 12 having arrived, Lieut. Gov. Jarvis, before adjourning the Senate, delivered an exceedingly graceful and handsome little speech, which was listened to amid the utmost silence and which found its way to all hearts. Well he might feel honored to know that he has presided with entire acceptability over such a body, for it cannot be denied that at least the Senate branch of the General Assembly, just ended, will compare most favorably with the best Senates that ever sat in the State. The closing hours of this session were orderly indeed, compared to those of past years. But a few years back the closing scenes in the legislative halls were by no means creditable to the participants, and it is a matter of congratulation to the Democratic party that this body has done nothing to give its opponents an opportunity to truthfully attack its record. A body of more than a gentleman present, after everybody average intellect, it has been faithful to its promises to the people and deserves the plaudits of its consituency.

Change of Schedule.

A change will take place to-morrow in the schedule of trains on the Raleigh & Gaston and Raleigh & Augusta Air-Line Railroads. The Raleigh & Gaston mail and passenger trains will leave Raleigh on and after to-morrow at 10:30 A. M., instead of 9:30; returning will arrive in Raleigh at 4:55 P. M., instead of 5:20. On the Raleigh & Augusta Air-Line Railroad the mail and passenger trains will leave Raleigh, on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays, at 5:10 P. M., instead of 5:30; will arrive at 10:15 A. M., instead of 9:15. There will be no change in the schedule of the mixed freight and passenger trains on this road, they continuing to arrive Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at 11:20 A. M., and leave at 1 P. M.

Dramatic Readings and Recita-

tions. Miss Mary Manly and Mr. Louis Haywood, of this city, who have given such unmistakable evidences of their histrionic talents, will leave the city early after the close of Lent to make a, tour of this State and portions of Virginia, giving dramatic readings and recitations: They will visit Hillsbore, Greensboro, Salisbury, Charlotte, Wilmington, Goldsboro, Newbern, Tarboro and other places in this State and go then to Virginia, appearing in Norfolk, Portsmouth. Petersburg, Richmond, Danville and Lynchburg. They are both endowed with rich dramatic gifts, as very many of the people of Raleigh can attest, and we cordially commend them to the good graces of the people of whatever place they may visit.

Commencement Orator.

Hon. Daniel G. Fowle, of Raleigh, has been invited and has consented to deliver the annual address before the two literary societies of the University, on Wednesday the 6th of June. This is an admirable selection. It will be seen upon glancing over the representation of speakers at the forthcoming commencement, that a very strong array of talent is enlisted: Judge Fowle delivers the commencement address proper; Gov. Vance delivers an address upon the life and character of the late Hon. D. L. Swain, and Hon. Walter L. Steele the address before Alumni Association.

Personal.

Hon. Kemp P. Battle, President of the University, arrived in the city vesterday afternoon and leaves this morning for Louisburg to deliver his lecture on the University in its relations to the agricultural interests of the State.

Capt. John Woodhouse, the editor of the Concord Register, is at the National Hotel.

George T. Stronach & Co. are receiving daily fresh supplies of all kinds of goods, and they sel cheaper than any other parties on the market. They also sell Bradley's celebrated Guanos for 400 pounds of cotton, first picking.

The Special Term of Court or

Judge David Schenck, of the 9t dicial district, came here January and by virtue of a commission, from Gov. Vance, held a special term of Wake Superior Court for the trial of civil causes. The docket at that time had upon it 463 cases, some of which dated back to 1859, having been transferred from the old equity and county court dockets. Most of these involved intricate litigation, and kept from suitors large sums of money. So onerous was the delay in the trial of civil causes that it amounted almost to a defeat of inatioe. This resulted from the fact that the criminal cases always consumed the time of the regular terms, and from the notorious incompetency of ex-Judge Watts, Judge Schenck at once recognized the great labor cut out for him; but he at once addressed himself to the task, and soon gave ample evidence of

During this special term, which ended last Saturday, 240 cases were tried and finally disposed of. Only ten appeals were taken to the Supreme Court. Out of the 209 cases remaining on the docket there are 27 in which reference was taken and which will probably be compromised. There remain about 182 cases, the most of which are of such a character that the next regular trim the marked abilities that distinguish can easily dispose of them. There are 235 pages of minutes of the proceedings, all of which are written up and indexed properly. Great credit is due the deputy clerk, Mr. C. D. Upchurch, for the careful and systematic manner in which he performed his part of the duty of the court. As to Judge Schenck, he has gained constantly upon the respect and admiration of the community since the day his court first opened. Words of the warmest praise of him are in the mouths of lawyers, suitors, officers of the court and all whoever attended its sessions. A jurist of profound learning, prompt and nearly always correct in his rulings, and firm in his adherence to them after they are made, uniting with these qualities the utmost courtesy toward all who are thrown in contact with him, it is not wonderful that he makes so deep an impression wherever he holds a court.

Another Kerosene Accident. A serious burning affair, occasioned by the explosion of a kerosene lamp, occurred Sunday at the residence of Mr. Richard Partin, who lives on East street, between Cabarrus and Martin, in the second ward. Mr. and Mrs. Partin had retired. A daughter, aged about 17, was sitting up, reading, and having finished, arose and lifted the kerosene lamp from the table to place it on the mantel-piece. The lamp began to flicker and pop, and, the young lady becoming faightened, threw it upon the floor. The oil ignited in a monent and communicated to Miss Partins dress. She screamed and threw herself upon a bed in the room. Her parents were awakened by the screams and rushed affrighted to the assistance of their daughter. In extinguishing the flames the hands and arms of both were painfully burned, but their efforts were finally successful. but not, however, until the young lady had been painfully burned, principally her hands and arms and left breast. Fortunately the flames did not extend to her face. Her escape from a horrible death was very narrow, especially since she threw herself upon the bed. As it was the injuries of none of the members of the family are likely to prove letter from Greensboro. The new Judge is evidently winning golden opinions from the bar and the people. Ir was through the earnest, persistent efforts of Senator Caho that Beaufort county was detached from the second judicial district. THE policy of President Hayes is meeting with general approval. A large meeting was held Saturday in Memphis to endorse his course toward the South. The Ohio Legislature endorsed, by resolution, the sentiments expressed in His Fraudulency's inaugural address.

THE presiding officers of the two houses of the General Assembly performed the duties of their high and responsible stations in a manner to win the confidence, esteem and unqualified respect of the members of both political parties. The tributes paid them in the closing hours of the session were richly deserved.

THE act in relation to probate courts and privy examination of women, which we print elsewhere this morning, is of the most important among the acts passed by the late general assembly. It will work a much needed reform; and the thanks of the country are due the introducer, Senator Mebane, of Rockingham, for his zealous efforts in procuring its passage.

Ex-GOVERNOR SCOTT, of South Caro lina, admits in a published letter, that Hampton is the lawful Governor of that State. All three of the Supreme Court Judges have also conceded this fact. There is hardly a doubt now that President Hayes will recognise Hampton, sooner or later. The peace of the State as well as the unimpeachable justice of Hampton's cause demands such recog-

THE Tilden and Vance club of Greens boro has resolved to continue its organization. This is well. Four years hence the issues of Reform presented in 1876 must be fought over again. Tilden has been defeated, but the cause is not lost. That still lives, and will daily grow, and deepen, and strengthen in the great popular heart, unless the country yields to the seductive influences of Hayesism, which God forbid!

ALTHOUGH the times have been generally very hard for the past three years and all interests subjected to a most painful strain, yet the consumption of cotton in the United States has steadily increased. In 1870-'71, when times were comparatively flush, the consumption reached 1,100,196 bales; in 1873-'74, the years of the panic, it was 1,305,943 bales; and in 1874-'75, 1,207,601 bales; and in 1875-'76, (corrected figures,) 1.356,598 bales. The cotton-growers may find comfort in this. All thet is needed is a restoration of values and a plenty of the sunshine of genuine peace between the sections, to make cottongrowing once more profitable.

THE letter of Mr. H. H. Helper, appear. ing in another column to-day, will be read with interest. This noted author is an earnest advocate of colonization for the colored race. He reflects a view entertained by many of our wisest men, to wit, that the negro should be removed to make room for the Anglo-Saxon-the monarch among men. Mr. Helper leads out on a subject which must sooner or later agitate this entire country; but, whatever may be the good or the evil which would result from colonization. we do not believe that it will ever be done to any considerable extent, because of its impracticability. Besides, as long as cotton culture is the leading feature in Southern farm industry, the labor of the negro will be essential. White men cannot work the cotton fields further South. When our labor system is properly adjusted, and the hatreds engen dered by the war have in a measure died out both North and South of the Potomac, immigration will dow into our bor lers; but that millennial period is yet far off in the dim, misty and uncertain future.

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY: The Legislature of 1876-77 finished

ts work yesterday, and adjourned sine die, after a session extending from the twentieth day of November 1876, a period of nearly four months. The ength of the session was unusual, but it could not well be helped, under the circumstances, and we are quite sure no complaint will be heard from any considerable number of the people against them on that score. The work could have been performed in less time, had there not been so much diversity of opinion as to the leading features of the legislation transacted. To reconcile divergent views, and harmonise and agree upon measures of high importance, required much time, and was necessarily attended with difficulty. The constitutional right of this body to sit, more than the sixty days prescribed in the amendments was clear. as the amendments did not apply to it,

Few Legislatures have had heavier, or more responsible, or more difficult tasks to perform. To relieve a great section of the State from negrondominance, and yet not trespass upon the guaranteed rights of the colored race; o make a large appropriation of money for the completion of the Western North Carolina Railroad, without increasing axation, or crippling other enterprises, nstitutions or interests : to make distribution of the convict labor without undue partiality; and, generally, to right up the old ship of State, without doing violence to the franchises or privileges of any, and without creating disturbances or sowing the seeds of future discord in the land, were undertakings by no means easy of accomplishment. How well these grave duties were discharged, we leave the public to judge.

It is very certain that no General As sembly ever went about its work with more integrity of purpose, or completed its labors with less suspicion of fraudulent practices. Indeed, malice itself would not have the effrontry to impute dishonesty or jobbrey of any kind to that body. The Legislators have gone home clean-handed; and with the proud consciousness that the confidence bestowed upon them by the people has not been abused or betrayed. In these days of degeneracy and fraud, it is a matter to congratulate a State upon that it has a Legislature, which has been undefiled by the polluting touch of the briber or the jobber. We have endeavored from day to day o keep our readers informed of the proceedings of the Legislature; and they are familiar with all the leading features of reform and and improvement adopted during the session-the county government act, the inferior courts act, the act for the division of the State into nine judicia districts, the acts for the erection of special courts, the act for the establish_ ment of an agricultural department, the the election of magistrates, the acts for the completion of the Western North Carolina Railroad, the distribution of the convict labor between the several public and private enterprises now on foot within our borders, and other important acts. We will as rapidly as possible present the full text of the most important of these. It will be borne in mind, to the credit of this Legislature, that its many meas ures for the advancement of the interests of the State, in agriculture and in internal improvements, as well as in other matters, were accomplished without increasing the burdens of taxation. This was done by wise economy and by improvements in the revenue law, whereby the revenues are increased without change in the rates of taxation.

In relieving the East, the Legislature was compelled to make some great and radical changes in the present system of county government, restoring the election of magistrates to the old and timehonored system which prevailed in North Carolina from the very foundations of the government up to the evil days of reconstruction. There will no doubt be dissatisfaction among those who preferred other modes for the lifting of the burdens of negro domination: but, we believe the majority of the conservative masses throughout the State will heartily approve the action of the Legislature in this respect.

It may be asked-will the Democratic party be strengthened in the State by the legislation enacted this winter? The answer to that question is found in the response to this-will the State be benefitted? Time alone can solve this ques tion, and we must patiently wait to witness the effects of the practical operation of the new county governments the inferior and special courts, and the various measures for internal improvement. If, as is hoped and expected, the East will be relieved of the evils that afflict it: the Western North Carolina Railroad be completed speedily; the agricultural department bring the blessings promised for it; and general improvement in all the dearest interests of the State be witnessed-the Legislature of 1876-'77 will be remembered with pride and pleasure for a long, long REPUBLICAN DISCORD. The reins of power were hardly i President Haves's hands before discord began its work in the Republican ranks. Decided opposition was made to his Cabinet nominations, and his Southern policy has been bitterly denounced already in and out of Washington. But a week has passed, and the unexpected spectacle is witnessed at the capital of the new President confronted in his plans by a powerful antagonistic faction within his own party.

The New York World, commenting upon this Kilkenny cat fight, and upon the duty of the Demecrats in view of the discord prevailing among our opponents, says the Republican party, already blighted and demoralized by the great fraud to which it has lent itself, is visibly breaking up under the strain of these confused and contradictory ambi-

If Me Haves could have cared around him a Cabinet made up of all the ablest men in the party, he would still have been practically powerless to pursue the evil policy which has brought such distress and ruin upon the country and reduced the Republican organization to its present miserable plight.

Neither Mr. Hayes nor his Cabinet can possibly attempt to carry out any policy whatever, excepting by favor either of his bitter personal antagonists within his own party, or his resolute political opponents under the Democratic flag. Were he to abandon the pacific and reasonable position which his friends claim that he occupies in regard to the chief issues of the hour, and surrender himself to the extreme revolutionists of his party, the country would refuse him its support; and the Democrats in Congress would effectually strangle every attempt at perpetuating the scandals and perils of the Grant administration at the South.

If he maintains an attitude of justice and of respect for the laws, he certainly will not thereby confer any favor upon the American people or upon the Democratic party. It is quite time that a check should be put to the habit into which the people of the United States have of late years been falling, of looking up to the Executive at Washington as the source of power and of policy in this Republic. The Democrats in Congress have it in charge to do this; and our Senators can render no such service to the cause of liberty and the constitution at this moment as by abstaining from any compromises or arrangements of any sort which may even seem to involve the acceptance, as a boon or as a bribe from the Executive, of rights which the people have appointed them to exercise, and of concessions to justice and the laws which it is their duty to demand, and which they have all the power necessary to enforce.

In the division of the State into nine Judicial Dstricts, in accordance with the amendment to the constitution relating thereto, the county of Franklin was originally placed in the second Judicial distrit, commonly known as the negro district because of its immense negro majority, giving the colored people power to elect a judge and a solicitor of their own race. Afterward, subsequent to the passage of the act, a supplemental bill was pushed through transferring Franklin from the second to the fifth district. For this lucky escape from the black district, Franklin owes gratitude to the distinguished Senator from Wi son, seconded by his colleague from Nash.

A Remarkable Submarine Vol-

SANFRANCISCO, March 9.—The Hono-lula Vazette, of February 28, contains an account of a remarkable submarine volcant outbreak in Keala-Kea-Kaua bay, near the entrance to the harbor. The natives report that the eruption occurred at 3 o'clock on the morning of the 28th ult., appearing like innumera-ble red, blue and green lights. In the afternoon several boats visited the place of eruption, cruising over the most acttive part, where the water was in a state of peculiar activity, boiling and appearing as if passing over rapids, or very much like the water at Hell Gate, square came up from below frequently striking and jarring the boats. As the lava was quite soft, no harm was done Nearly all the pieces, on reaching the surface, were red hot, emitting steam and gas, strongly sulphurous. A rum-bling noise was heard like that of rocks in a freshet, caused. no doubt, by the eruption of lava from the submarine crater, which is supposed to be a crack or line of rupture extending at least a mile from shore. Another rupture, doubtless a continuance of the subma rine fissures, was traced inland from there nearly three miles, ranging in width from a few inches to three feet. In some places water was running down into the abyss below. A severe shock of earthquake was felt by those living at Kaowaoloa and Kell during the night of the eruption, which must have pre-ceded the outbreak. It was quite severe but no damage was reported.

A Sweeping Verdict.

The corner's jury in the case of the shtabula bridge disaster have returned an elaborote verdict, based upon the evidence elicited from professionals and experts, in which they make no qualifi cation in placing the whole responsibility upon the railroad company. The fall of the bridge, they say, was the result of defects and errors made in de signing. constructing and erecting it, a circumstance astonishing in connection with any, and particularly a first-class railroad, but not more astonishing than the fact that such a company should permit the use of such a bridge for a period of eleven years, at any time during which period its gross defects would have been manifest to the inspection of any competent engineer. The jury also arraign the company for its negligence in not providing against the accident of fire in the method of heating the cars, a negligence which added so fearfully to the horrors of the disaster. The responsibility for not putting out the fire at the time it first made its appearance in the wreck is placed upon those who were first to ar-rive at the scene and "who seem to have been so overwhelmed by the fearful calamity that they lost all presence mind." The means were at hand, consisting of a steam pump, a fire engine and hose, but they were not em-ployed to save the lives of those who

A Duel on Horseback -- Two Lives Sacrificed for a Faithless Wo-

Saturday, the 3d inst., two lives were sacrificed for a faithless woman. Henry, colored, loved the wife of Lew Butcher, also colored, and in order to get the husband out of the way invited him out to hunt. When in the woods Henry lagged behind, and, when the opportunity presented itself, ledged a load of buckshot in Butcher's back. Butcher, although mortally hurt, turn-ed in his saddle to see whether he had been shot through accident or design when, noticing Henry, scarcely a yard distant, trying to reach his musket, which, after the shooting, he had laid across his saddle, the truth burst upon him, and he knew that his only chance for life lay in killing Henry. Quickly leveling his musket Butcher fired just as Henry turned to flee, and sent a load of buckshot through his back, causing death almost instantaneously. Butche then hastened hone, which he reached in time to tell his story and die.

Important Change of Officers of the Air-Line.

[Charlotte Observer, of Sunday.] Information was received here, late last night, of an important change of officers which is about to take place on the Air-Line Rullroad. The Receivership of Col. Fisher expired with the confirmation of the sale of the road, which took place several weeks ago, but he has been acting in the capacity of President of the road until the present owners could take possession. This has been done. The report received here states that Mr. Sibley, of New York, one of the largest stockholders, is President, and that Col. Fisher will hold the position of General Manager. Col. G. . Foreacre, late Superintendent of the Virginia Micland Railroad, succeed Col. J. B. Peck as Superintendent. He passed through the city last night on his way to take possession. He has a fine reputation as a railroad man, and is one of the shrewdest men in the busi-

It is just sixtoen years since John Sherman entered the Senate, succeeding Mr. Chase, who had taken the position of Secretary of the Treasury, ten-dered him by President Lincoln. Mr. Sherman now leaves the Senate for the same position. As remarked last night, Mr. Sherman could not have been confirmed had the Democrats all voted against him. Several of the Democratic Senators who voted against him stated to-day that they did so because of his audacious hardihood in getting up in his place in the Senate and pro-claiming that the double-distilled villains of the Louisiana returning board were the peers of any Senator on the first instance where there has been any opposition of consequence to the con-firmation of a Senator. In the case of Reverdy Johnson, when he was nominated in 1868 as minister to England, the Senate, which was overwhelmingly opposed to him politically, confirmed him unanimously without reference.

To-day Mr. Jno. T. Verree, President of the Union League of Philadelphia, and a personal friend of Mr. Hayes, cilled at the White House and had an interview with him. He congratulated him on the sentiments of his inaugural, in lorsed his Southern policy, and as-sured him of his belief that the people of Pennsylvania and of the whole country hope that he would not allow himself to be forced from the position which he had assumed. Mr. Hayes was evidently pleased to learn that the Camerons were not all of Pennsylvania. He said that did propose to be amiably stubborn. He had mapped out a policy for his admin-istration which he thought would redound to the common good of the whole country, and he would not swerve from nis course unless it was demonstrated to his own satisfaction that it was wrong. In the meantime he had no des re to antagonize his administration against the Senate, but he could not recede from what he believed to be right because of an unreasoning clamor. Mr. Verree then said to Mr. Hayes that he was delighted to hear him talk so, that he had felt a little uneasy at the outlook, and thought that perhaps he would allow himself to be bulldo ed by the malcontents. Gov. Hayes smiled and said, "I repeat, Mr. Verree, that I am determined to be amiably stubborn."

LETTER FROM MR. HELPER. The News Commended--Colonization--Crawford's Bill.

To the Editor of the News: SIR: Believing your views to be in advance of others in advocacy of the real needs of North Carolina and, in fact, of the entire South, I become a subscriber to your paper from this date.

North Carolina is in great want of a policy. What is it? It is colonization, immigration and internal improvements.

When the colonization of the black race sets in effectively, then the immigration of the white race will come in with whose, but not till then. Intelligent white labor from abroad will not come in conflict, nor in contact, with black labor, be it never so intelligent. Colonization will bring to us immigration, and these in turn will fetch us railroads and manufacturing establishments of

O, for a statesman to lead us into these paths of political and material economy and to hold us there!

I am gratified to observe that one of the several absolutely needful measures advocated by myself before the people of Rowan and Davie, and promulgated through the columns of the Salisbury Watchman last Ottober, has been carried through the Serate by Mr. Crawford. I assume, as a matter of course, the bill will be passed by the House without a dissenting voice, save that of the Republicans. My Crawford deserves great credit for carrying this bill through the

An Interesting Week in the "City of Flowers" - Judge Cox's First Term--Mr. Battle's Address. [Correspondence of the News.]

The past has been a week of more than ordinary interest. Judge Cox held his first term in Guilford, and has won the admiration of the bar and all the better class of citizens; but has proved a terror to evil-doers. He sent three thieves to the penetentiary—two colored natives and one white tramp from Ohio. The case of most interest was State vs. J. B. Gretter and M. C. Dixon, This was an election affray in which pistols were drawn and one accidental shot, which caused a painful wound to a policeman—Mr. Ed. H. Scott. Both policeman—Mr. Ed. H. Scott. Both parties were found guilty—fined $25 each and ten days in jail. Mr. Dixon was granted an appeal; but Mr. Gretter, (who you will remember was playing Gen. Taft, No. 2,) concluding he was lucky to get off so easy, took up his lodging in jail. The Judge is a warm friend of education and always imposes a fine when he can. a fine when he can.

Monday night the Rads held a feast in honor of Hayes's inaugration. They drank and toasted everybody's health even the poor negroes'—but, no negroes' was there to drink. The prospect of four more years of good stealing makes all our Rads very happy.
Tuesday night the Tilden and Vance Club held a meeting and resolved to continue their organization and rent rooms for a reading and club room, where they can talk over the past and build bright air castles. While this was going on here our Democratic legislators were electing Radical justices. Well, some of them will catch it when they get home.

Hon. Kemp P. Battle delivered an able address on Tuesday to a large audience, and said many good words for the University—the pride of the State.

While here Mr. B. visited our graded school and Greenshore. Femala College. school and Greensboro Female College. Hope he was pleased, for Greensboro is justly proud of her schools. Raleigh ought to be more liberal towards her

There is not quite so much talk as to who will be postmaster as there was a few weeks since.

A Peaceful Outlook--A Perma manent Treaty Probable. LONDON, March 12.-The Vienna correspondent of the Times says that the information that the negotiations, now proceeding turn on the signing of an international protocol, is now confirmed from so many sides that it is no longer to be doubted. The Porte is to pledge itself in a protocol, countersigned by the powers, that it will carry out the reforms agreed upon by the powers in the preliminary conference. This may be taken as the essence of the Russian proposals. Russia does not seem to have abandoned the hope of finding a form for this international document which will overcome British objections. Count Schanvaloff's return to London indicates that it is thought that some such form has been found. The correspondent alleges that he has good information that Russia is ready to make great concessions as regards the form, provided the real essence of the proposal is accepted. Not only does there seem to be no intention to insist upon an agreement about eventual measures of coercion, but everything is to be avoided beyond the present assent and signature by the powers of the protocol which might entail obligations for the future. In this way, it is thought, the assent of England may be secured. The Post, in a leading article, announces that a cabinet council will be held immediately to decide upon the acceptability of the proposals brought by Count Schanvaloff, the Russian em-
